

d. Please see the Report Use of Bibliometrics
(<http://www.dcu.ie/~research/docs/bibliometrics.html>)

2. The DMU Research Ethics Code of Practice (ReCOP), is subject to a review process which highlights the significance of the 22/23 year, including guidance regarding the standard of already published research and the way in which it is presented.

3. Faculty of Business and Management Webpages subject to a review process. Faculty pages should include the ethics approval process and discipline-specific advice for staff and students. It is the responsibility of each faculty to ensure that the Research Integrity Code is followed.

The Research Integrity Code can be found here:
<http://www.dcu.ie/~research/ethics-and-governance/wy-is-research-integrity-and-ethics-impact> and the Research Integrity and Ethics Code can be found here: <http://www.dcu.ie/~research/ethics-and-governance/ethics-integrity> and

